Research in Geography Education Session Track

For the 2019 AAG Annual Meeting in Washington, DC, the National Center for Research in Geography Education (NCRGE) is welcoming abstracts and organized session proposals for a track of research-oriented sessions in geography education. This track aims to raise the visibility of research in geography education, grow the NCRGE research coordination network, and provide productive spaces for discussion about geography education research and the notion of what makes research in the field potentially transformative.

CONTEXT: Each year for the AAG Annual Meeting, NCRGE organizes and compiles a track of papers, posters, and panels focusing on geography education research. Abstracts and sessions submitted to this track will be publicized by NCRGE to highlight geography education research presentations in the AAG Annual Meeting program.

SESSIONS: Abstracts and sessions on any geography education research topic are welcome. Examples of topics include:

- Powerful Geography
- National and state geography standards
- Geospatial technology
- Learning progressions
- Assessment
- Spatial thinking and cognition
- International comparative research
- Teacher professional development (online & face-to-face)
- Teaching strategies (all levels)
- Critical geography education

About the National Center for Research in Geography Education

NCRGE is a research consortium with headquarters at the American Association of Geographers and Texas State University. Funded by grants from the National Science Foundation, private foundations and other agencies, NCRGE works to build capacity for transformative research in geography education.

For each of the activities below, we seek a diverse group of individuals representing a range of experiences with these and other topics. If interested, please follow the specified procedures.

Information on how to submit an abstract or organized session is available at <https://annualmeeting.aag.org/>

RESEARCH PAPERS

NCRGE will be organizing several paper sessions on research topics related to geography education. To present in one of these sessions:

- Register for the conference at <https://annualmeeting.aag.org/>
